

BioFuels Technologies (BFT) Privacy Policy

BFT, Inc. respects the privacy of visitors to our site. Please read our privacy statement carefully so that you understand our privacy practices relative to information we gather through this web site.

Protecting the Privacy of Children

BFT does not market to children under the age of 18. Children should always get permission from their parents before sending any information about themselves (such as their names, email addresses, and phone numbers) over the Internet, to us or to anyone else.

If you're under 18, please don't provide any personally identifying information during your visit to biofuelstechnologies.com.

The Information We Collect

The information gathered by BFT generally falls into two categories: (1) The information supplied by visitors to the site when they place an order for one or more of our products, and (2) generalized, aggregate tracking information gathered as visitors navigate through the BFT site.

When you place an order for a product, we request personal information in order to fulfill that order. If we have trouble fulfilling your order, the contact information you provide is used to get in touch with you. We also use this contact information to provide you with updates regarding your order and to give you updated information about other products and services available from BFT. At any time that you inform us that you want no further, or limited, contact from BFT, we will comply with your request.

We do not share or sell your e-mail address ever – we promise.

We do not share or sell your mailing information with anyone, ever.

To help us tailor our site to the needs and interests of our visitors and customers, we may keep track of the pages visited by our users. We do this by using technology that allows us to track the pages you've visited. We aggregate this data with data on the pages visited by other users to track overall visitor traffic patterns.

We use this information to improve our site by making it more responsive to the needs of our users.

We don't keep track of individual data by user, just the overall statistics.

Our web server may automatically collect your IP address when you request pages from our server. Your IP address is a number that is used by computers connected to the Internet to identify your computer so that data can be sent to you.

Your IP address does not tell us who you are.

We may also collect information on the operating system you're running on your computer and the web browser software you're using to access our site so we can optimize our site for the most popular operating systems and web browsers.

And, because we like to know how you found our site, we may keep track of where you came from.