

All products listed on the BFT website are carried in current inventory. No products are "dropped ship" from suppliers. If a product available for sale is listed on the website but is not currently in inventory, the web listing will indicate that the item is not currently in stock and give an expected availability date. In that circumstance, back orders will be filled in the order in which customer orders are received.

BFT ships all products weekly on Fridays. All product orders received by end-of-business each Thursday are shipped on Friday, with the exception of "V3" units.. "V3" units require approximately 2 weeks to assemble. Expected ship time on "V3" orders is two weeks following the Friday immediately following the receipt of an order and deposit. Complete payment for a "V3" unit must be received via check or money order prior to shipment. On occasions when Friday is a national holiday shipment will be made on the first business day following the holiday period.
